

: introductory course focus on robotics topics that relate to modeling, dynamics, and control of robotic manipulators. During this course, students will be required to gradually complete the design and construction of a robot using 3D printing technologies.