

THE UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND, SALISBURY UNIVERSITY CAMPUS AT THE UNIVERSITY SYSTEM OF MARYLAND AT HAGERSTOWN

The University System of Maryland at Hagerstown (USMH) is a regional higher education center located in downtown Hagerstown, Maryland that offers courses in educational programs leading to a degree. The Hagerstown Center Supports programs from six universities: Frostburg State University, Coppin State University, Salisbury University, Towson University, University of Maryland University College and University of Maryland Eastern Shore.

Under the USMH Memorandum of Understanding, Frostburg State University assumes the responsibility for preparing the Clery Statistical Report for all participating institutions at USMH. USMH statistics are obtained from the Hagerstown City Police Department and all participating institutions submit Judicial Referrals and Title IX incidents to Frostburg State University by September 1 of the reporting year. Frostburg State University compiles all reportable Clery information from USMH and shares the results with each contributing institution for inclusion on the Annual Security Report as a separate campus.

Crimes Statistics - The Jeanne Clery Act of 1990 requires that students and employees of the University System of Maryland Hagerstown (USMH) be informed of campus crime rates and of university policies relating to safety and security. This disclosure statement is in compliance with that act.

as well. USMH alcohol and drug policies will be made available to all students and employees in final approval. Drug or alcohol services are not offered directly by USMH. Local agencies should be consulted. The Washington County Health Department may be contacted at 303-370-1 for either drug or alcohol information, or for referral to other community resources.

Sex Offender Registry - The Campus Sex Crimes Prevention Act is designed to make campus communities aware of sex offenders in their midst, just as "Megan's Law" does for campus, residential communities. In Maryland, a sex offender registry is maintained by the Department of Public Safety. It may be accessed at: <http://dpss.maryland.gov/onlineservs/socem/default.shtml>. The linked page gives a full explanation of the use to which the sex offender registry can be put, as well as some cautionary advice.
